Part II Organizational Action Attach additional statements if needed. See back of form for additional questions.

14 Describe the organizational action and, if applicable, the date of the action or the date against which shareholders' ownership is measured for the action ▶ Effective as of the start of trading on the NYSE MKT on December 29, 2014, the Issuer affected a one-for-four reverse stock split of its shares of common stock ("Common Stock"). The CUSIP number changed from 21924B203 to 21924B302.

15 Describe the quantitative effect of the organizational action on the basis of the security in the hands of a U.S. taxpayer as an adjustment per share or as a percentage of old basis ▶ Upon effectiveness, the number of shares of Common Stock held by each stockholder were reduced by dividing the number of shares held immediately before the reverse stock split by the one-for-four exchange ratio. The Issuer did not issue fractional shares. Instead, the Issuer paid cash in lieu of any fractional interest in a share to which such stockholder would otherwise be entitled as a result of the reverse stock split.

16 Describe the calculation of the change in basis and the data that supports the calculation, such as the market values of securities and the valuation dates ▶

Post-split (new) basis per share = Pre-split (old) basis per share times four (4).

While the basis 'per share' is impacted, the basis of the stockholder's total investment remains unchanged.

17 List the applicable Internal Revenue Code section(s) and subsection(s) upon which the tax treatment is based ► The reverse stock split is a non-taxable recapitalization pursuant to Section 368(a)(1)(E) of the Internal Revenue Code. Section 354(a)(1) provides that, in relevant part, no gain or loss shall be recognized if stock in a corporation is exchanged solely for stock in such corporation. Section 358(a) provides that, in relevant part, the tax basis of stock in a corporation received in an exchange will be the same as the tax basis in the stock exchanged. Tax treatment of the receipt of cash in lieu of fractional shares is tested under Section 302 and will depend on each stockholder's specific facts and circumstances.

18 Can any resulting loss be recognized? ► Generally not except for stockholders receiving cash in lieu of fractional shares that qualify for sale or exchange treatment pursuant to the tests under Section 302 may qualify for loss recognition where the tax basis allocated to the fractional shares was greater than the cash payments received for those shares, subject to other relevant provisions of the Internal Revenue Code regarding loss recognition limitations.

A stockholder of the Issuer's Common Stock who receives cash in lieu of a fractional share of the Issuer's Common Stock pursuant to the reverse stock split should recognize a capital gain or loss in an amount equal to the difference between the amount of cash received and the holder's tax basis in the shares of the Issuer's Common Stock surrendered that is allocable to such share of the Issuer's Common Stock. Such capital gain or loss should be a long-term capital gain or loss if the stockholder's holding period for the Issuer's Common Stock surrendered exceeded one year at the effective date of the reverse stock split.

19 Provide any other information necessary to implement the adjustment, such as the reportable tax year ► The reportable tax year in which the reverse stock split occurred is 2014. The par value of the Issuer's Common Stock did not change as a result of the reverse stock split.

The tax treatment of a stockholder may vary depending upon the particular facts and circumstances of the stockholder. Each stockholder is urged to consult with the stockholder's own tax advisor with respect to the consequences of the reverse stock split.
